IS STENGEL ON WAY OUT? NEW YORK POST SAYS YES

NEW YORK (AP)—The New York Post says disension had split the New York Yankee hierarchy and "the chances are fifty-fifty Casey Stengel will never put on a Yankee uniform again." The Yankees denied it. Stengel is the veteran manager whose team won its 18th world series championship in Milwaukee Thursday.

The story, written by Post columnist Jimmy Cannon, said that Del Webb, one of the co-owners of the club with Dan Topping, now was siding with George Weiss, general manager, in anti-Stengel views. Topping, the story said, was neutral but was expected to side with Webb and Weiss if the case came to a showdown.

"The story is utterly ridiculous and not worthy of comment," said Bob Fishel, public relations director.

U.S. Prepares Cosmic Shoot

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States air force may hurl a cosmic forward pass Saturday in a shoot for the moon.

The rocket will be aimed at a spot in space about 137,000 miles ahead of the moon's position at the time of launching. The hope is that the moon and the satellite would rendezvous somewhere near each other 2½ days and 221,000 miles later.

B.C. Campsites Being Planned

VICTORIA (CP)—British Columbia has a $1,000,000 transportation plan for the development of campsites. The plan is to build 20 campsites along the coast-to-coast system of highways. The campsites will be built on a basis of sharing the cost with the federal government. Recreation Minister Westwood said Thursday night.

Mr. Westwood said B.C. hopes to get a generous share of the $2,000,000 that Prime Minister Diefenbaker announced last week would be available to provincial governments to provide winter work projects by constructing campsites.

The winter work plan came from a suggestion by Mr. Westwood at last October's federal-provincial tourist conference that a coast-to-coast system of campsites be established along the trans-Canada highway.

B.C. work intended includes: At Skeena, north of Lytton, 40 campsites to be constructed. South of Lytton at Gold Pan on the Fraser River 20 units to be constructed.

A picnic site of 20 tables at Savona on Kamloops Lake. Expansion of the campsite at Lac Lajeune, 12 miles north of Kamloops, to 75 units from 54.

THIS IS ONE of the last pictures taken of the late Pope Pius XII who died Wednesday evening. His successor will be the 263rd pontiff of the Roman Catholic church.

Weathermen Report Six Inches Of Fluff

Kelowna experienced its earliest snowfall in 28 years last night and early this morning.

But weathermen blamed it on the low pressure front that is moving across the southeastern portion of B.C. from the west coast.

Temperatures hovered a few degrees below freezing point and the rain quickly turned to snow a few hundred feet above the ground.

SIX INCHES SNOW
Up to 6 a.m. today, the weather office reported a total of 1.2 inches of precipitation recorded. Meteorologists insist that of this total amount, six inches was snow.

This morning telephone and power crews were busy repairing communication lines which had been severed by falling branches. Most of the trouble was reported in the East Kelowna area, West Kootenay Power

Provinces Lose First Rate Fight

OTTAWA (CP)—Provinces trying to block a railway freight rate increase have lost the first round.

The eight governments misfired Thursday in a last-minute attempt to have the cabinet order the board of transport commissioners to throw out the railways' application for a 19-per-cent general increase amounting to about $60,000,000 a year.

However, they served notice that should the board grant the increase they will present a new petition.

The provincial governments—all except Ontario and Quebec—presented their petition to the cabinet while the board was in the last stages of a five-day hearing on the rate case Thursday.

They asked that the ministers order the commission to throw out the railway transport board's jurisdiction in this particular application.

Bulls Are In A Mean Mood . . . Because It's Moose Mating Season

CHAPLEAU, Ont. (CP)—It's moose mating season in the north and, as usual, the bulls are in a mean mood. Two incidents to prove the point:

Lloyd Woods, a deputy chief forest ranger, was driving a truck near Island Lake one night last week when a bull moose stepped into his headlights.

Assuming it would move off into the bush, Woods slowed the truck but didn't quite stop. The bull charged, smashed the vehicle in its tracks, smashed the grill, bent the hood and roof and tore a carrier off the top.

While Woods sat surveying the damage the animal sauntered off with a sore head but proud pace.

Ranger Harry Kohls was working on a line-cutting project in a nearby township when he heard a strange noise and looked back to find a huge bull stalking him.

The ranger hurled his axe. It was the wrong move. The bull, started after him and Kohls fled. He still had a lead when he reached a nearby road and was picked up by a passing truck.

District forester T. W. Hueton comments in his weekly report: "The moose season got off to a fairly good start."

Majority Of B.C. Medics Trained By Canadians

About 64 per cent of new doctors registered in B.C. during the past year were graduates of Canadian medical schools, according to a report issued this week by the College of Physicians and Surgeons of B.C. There were 123 new registrants at the College during the year ending Sept. 30. Of these 29 per cent came from the United Kingdom and seven per cent received medical training in seven other countries.

Of an original 15 Hungarian refugee doctors whose presence in B.C. was reported to the college in the last year, six have successfully taken their basic science examination; five are doing internship and one has passed all examinations and is in practice.

New Plowing Champ Named

CRYSLER Ont. (CP)—A lanky Ontario cattle farmer is the new Canadian plowing champion and a Prince Edward Island agriculture student has earned the right to team with him in the 1959 world competition.

Charlie Bonney, 31, of Princeton Ont., topped the seven-province, 13-man field Thursday by guiding his two-share plow to a total 147 points out of a possible 200.

Store Hours Are Relaxed

VICTORIA (CP)—City council gave approval Thursday for wide open shopping for Victoria. Several groups of retailers immediately announced they would resist the trend.

By a vote of 7-2, it gave preliminary approval to a bylaw exempting 67 classes of shops from shop-closing regulations. The bylaw requires one more reading before it can go into effect.

The 67 classes of retail outlets exempted from all closing regulations other than the Lord's Day Act appear to include every kind of retail business in the city.

Council's decision ended a long battle over store hours, one group of merchants fighting for a 5½-day week and one for a six-day week.

Furniture, jewelry and appliance store operators met later and agreed to close all day on Wednesdays.

Woman Killed As Heavy Rain Causes Crash

VICTORIA (CP)—An elderly woman died and at least six persons were injured here Thursday as heavy rain brought hazardous driving conditions.

Mrs. Isobel L. Tautz, 73, died in hospital three hours after she was struck by a jack-knifing B.C. Electric dynamite truck with a compressor trailer. She suffered a fractured skull and internal injuries when caught between trailer and truck.

Seconds later Herta Schumacher and Gladys Smith were knocked to the pavement by a car just two blocks from the fatal accident. They suffered leg and head injuries and were in "fair" condition in hospital.

Injuries in three other accidents were less severe.

19 Die In Crash

PAYETTE, Idaho (AP)—A U.S. Air Force transport, apparently trying a wheels-down emergency landing, crashed and burned with 19 servicemen aboard Thursday night. All were killed.

PONTIFF'S WILL

Last Testament Of Humble Man

VATICAN CITY (Reuters)—"I humbly ask pardon of all whom I may have offended, harmed or scandalized by word or by deed," the late Pope Pius XII wrote in his last will and testament published today.

In the testament, published by order of the cardinals who have taken over supreme power of the Roman Catholic Church, the pontiff declared:

"I name as my sole legate the holy apostolic see from which I have had so much, as from a most loving mother."

WANTS NO MONUMENT
The Pope added:

"I pray those, whose affair it is, not to bother to erect any monument to my memory. Suffice it is that my poor mortal remains should be simply laid in a sacred place, the more obscure the better."

"I have no need to ask for prayers for my soul. I know how numerous are those which the custom of the apostolic see and the piety of the faithful cause to be offered for every pope who dies."

"I do not even need to leave a spiritual testament, as so many zealous prelates are used in praiseworthy fashion to do, because the not-inconsiderable number of acts and speeches, emanated or pronounced by me for reasons of office, suffice to make known, to whoever might perchance desire to know my thought on different religious and moral questions."

BEGINS WITH PRAYER
The pontiff began his testament

with the Latin prayer: "Misere mei, Deus, secundum misericordiam Tuam."

He continued:

"These words which, aware that I was unworthy and unequal of them, I pronounced at the moment in which with trepidation I accepted election as supreme pontiff I now repeat with ever more foundation at a time in which knowledge of the deficiencies, of the failures, of the sins committed during so long a pontificate and in no grave an epoch have made more clear to my mind my insufficiency and unworthiness."

Something To Be Thankful For —The Red Feather Campaign

Be glad that you can give.

This coming weekend we mark the Thanksgiving festival and during the week-end are supposed to count our blessings. We would suggest that among those blessings there are few that rank higher than our ability to lend a helping hand to our less fortunate fellows—we should be glad that we can give.

And we know of no better way of giving than through a sizable donation to the Community Chest which is currently holding its annual drive for funds here. The Chest is composed of fourteen local charities. Consider some of them: the Salvation Army; the Arthritic and Rheumatism Society; the homemaker service; retarded children; the health and welfare fund; the Cerebral Palsy Association; the Boy Scouts; the Senior Citizens. Quite an impressive lot of deserving charities there, we think.

Be glad that you can give.

Be glad, too, that there is an organization such as the Community Chest through which you can give effectively and easily. A community chest has two main functions. The first is to raise funds each year for affiliated social, health and recreation services and then to distribute the funds in accordance with a systematic budget procedure. The second is to promote, in co-operation with the community welfare council, the effective planning, co-ordination and administration of those services in the community. When we give to our Community Chest we are supporting a wide network of social welfare and health services which prevent and cure social injustice, human misery and unhappiness. It has been estimated that two out of every five Canadian families receive direct service of some kind from one or more of the Red Feather services supported by our local community chest.

Be glad that you can give.

And be glad, too, that a large number of your fellow citizens make it easy for you to give. Men and women from all walks of life in this city make up the volunteers who work each year in the welfare organizations supported by our Community Chest and many others join hands with them to organize and carry through the campaign to raise funds for those organizations. They gladly give of their leisure time to work in health, recreation and family welfare agencies; they campaign for funds for those services; they serve as committee and board members directing operations. They deserve a friendly welcome from every Kelownian.

Verily, this Thanksgiving weekend, we living in Kelowna should be glad we can give. We should be glad, too, that we have among us public-spirited citizens who operate the charitable organizations and make it so very easy for us to make our giving effective.

Your Car's Mileage Per Gal.

If you're a typical motorist the odds are that your thoughts on gasoline are 28 years out of date.

Here's the test: how do you measure the efficiency of your car and its fuel? Do you still ask only, "How many miles will I get to the gallon?"

Most of us do use the "miles per gallon" yardstick but it's as antiquated as the model A Ford or a Rudolph Valentino movie. Many also couple this old-style measurement with complaints about the higher costs of gasoline.

For all such 1930 thinkers, gasoline researchers have a new, more accurate method of judging a gasoline's performance. They call it the "ton-miles per gallon" measurement. It takes into account the scores of changes in cars since the 1930s and it shows that a gallon of 1958 gasoline is doing 50 per cent more work than a gallon of 1930 gasoline—at virtually no increased cost to the motorist.

"Ton-miles per gallon" means simply the number of miles that a gallon of gasoline will move a ton of automobile. It allows for the increased weight of cars—something motorists usually overlook in their calculations, despite their demand for bigger, heavier car bodies, more luxury gadgets and power features.

The average 1930 car rolled off the production line weighing 2,500 pounds. This year manufacturers have boosted the average weight of their models to 3,500 pounds—adding a half ton to the work load of 1958 engines.

Several other "highway robbers" are feeding indirectly from your gas tank. Automatic transmission, power brakes, power steering, super-generators, air conditioning—accessories that weren't available a dozen years ago—are tapping the energy of high-octane motor fuel that goes into a 1958 luxury model.

To find out exactly how much power accessories affect your gasoline economy, engineers tested two models—one without power features and the other equipped with air conditioning, power brakes and steering, window and seat actuators and other luxury accessories.

The standard model gave 22 miles to the gallon; the other, only 15 miles. One-third of the power in the luxury model was diverted from the wheels into effort-saving accessories.

To compensate for the power that these conveniences steal from your gasoline tank, manufacturers have added power. The compression ratio of engines has doubled since 1930. The average engine that year operated on a compression ratio of 4.5 to 1; the latest models average 9 to 1.

The demands of higher compression have proven expensive to gasoline manufacturers. As the compression ratio crept up, so did the octane rating of motor gasoline. Today's regular grade motor fuel is about 30 points higher in octane rating than its 1930 counterpart, and is the same as premium gasoline five years ago. As just one indication of the price the oil industry has paid to stay in the octane race, Imperial Oil last year alone spent about $20 million improving gasoline quality.

But the effort has paid off in terms of increased ton-mile ratio of your 1958 model. In 1930 a gallon of gasoline moved a ton of automobile 35 miles, when travelling at 40 miles an hour on level pavement. Under the same conditions a gallon will move a ton of today's automobile 53 miles. This is a work increase of more than 50 per cent.

The cost of octane improvement has contributed slightly to the higher price at the pumps. But the major factor in higher gasoline prices is the provincial highway tax. The national average tax per gallon paid by 1930 motorists was 4.8 cents. In June of 1958 the national average was 13 cents per gallon, ranging from 10 cents in B.C. and Alberta to 17 cents in two of the Maritime provinces. This is an increase of about 250 per cent and obviously a major portion of the overall price increase.

Yet even with higher provincial gasoline taxes motorists are getting a better deal than in 1930—if the ton-mile measurement is kept in mind. The 50 per cent more work done by modern gasoline in today's engines costs practically nothing. Here's how engine technicians reach that conclusion:

Motorists in a dozen major Canadian cities in 1930 paid an average of 31.3 cents a gallon for gasoline. This means that a driver operating his 1930 car under ideal test conditions would have paid 1.1 cents a mile for gasoline. The driver of this year's model, paying an average of 43.3 cents a gallon in the same cities last June, would get a test result of 1.4 cents a mile—an increase of three-tenths of a cent per mile.

If premium grade gasoline is used the cost is still only 1.6 cents a mile—or half a cent more than drivers paid for regular grade gasoline in 1930.

In short, today's motorist is getting more automotive power than ever before at a negligible increase in cost. Which is no small achievement when even the price of haircuts is up 400 per cent.—Imperial Oil Review.

PERSONALLY SPEAKING

By THE VENERABLE D. S. CATCHPOLE

DROP DEAD!

Someone just said that to me over the telephone and you cannot imagine how glad I was to hear it because I was completely "sunk" for an idea. Slang! Is there anything more vulgar or so expressive? When I first took up my abode in the Sandringham Hotel in Hampstead, London, England, I made the acquaintance of mine hostess. She was of German birth and had come across the Channel in about 1942 or a little later. Her English was impeccable. One day I came breezily down the stairs, suddenly caught sight of my hostess and called out "Hi!" Then I realized that this was not in the best taste to I added hastily, "I am afraid that I shouldn't have said that." She smiled and said, "No! You shouldn't."

Yet, I must admit that I find "Hi!" a very useful expression. It conveys friendliness and even warmth, and in these days of speed, it conveys all this and more in the briefest possible manner. Moreover, it is possible that this exclamation may well take its place eventually with other exclamations in the dictionary of the future. Somehow or other, I cannot say the same for the old, festive remark "Drop Dead!" Yet even that expression has its points.

Years ago one chap would say to another, on parting, "Au revoir!" which was really very very — if you follow me. Today I hear people say anything from "Bye!" or "Bye-Bye!" to "See you!" or, in the lower brackets, "Be seen" yuh. I hesitate to delve into slang lest I find myself bracketed with the vulgar but I confess to a liking for picturesque speech. To tell someone to go to Hell is simply crude and besides, so far as I know, it is not possible to make such a journey, but it is not absurd or necessarily pointless to advise someone to "go, fly a kite", or to "go peddle your papers" or even "to go and jump in the lake". These admonitions convey scorn or perhaps resentment, against interference. No doubt the underlying feeling could be expressed in other ways but I am simply drawing attention to the rather delightful value of picturesque speech.

Personally, I lean to polite expressions. However, this did not prevent me from delighting in the comment made by Bill Williams (from Liverpool), our steward in the dining room of the "Empress of Britain", when a somewhat solid lady asked him, at our last meal on the ship: "Can we get off at half past two this afternoon?" He replied: "Two-thirty? If you do, you'll have a long swim!" Well, of course, he could have said, "No, I am afraid not, madam. We do not dock until five-fifteen" but I think his answer, though cheeky, was one of the highlights of the voyage. Of course, you must also imagine the dialect.

I rather like something with a hidden meaning; something that means one thing definitely but a thing which is not obvious from the use of the word or term. For example, I have always thought that for Lord Nelson to say to his Captain, "Kiss me, Hardy", when he, the Admiral, was shot down and was dying, was a stupid thing for a sailor to say. Sir Winston Churchill suggests that what he actually said was "Kismet, Hardy" or as the modern lingo would put it "I've had it, Hardy". Of course he might have said: "Captain Hardy, I regret to have to inform you that I have received a mortal wound and I beg to take this opportunity of saying 'Farewell'". To me that would be just as stupid as for Lord Nelson to have said, "Kiss me, Hardy!"

Well, anyway, here's to the picturesque in speech!

THEIR LIVES—HIS LIVELIHOOD—DEPEND ON OIL

Imperial contributes to a better life for Canadians through constant leadership in oil... finding new supplies... pioneering more useful products

There are more than five tractors for every six occupied farms in Canada... one motor vehicle for every four Canadians. More than half the homes in Canada are heated by oil.

Canadians consume half again as much gasoline today as they did in 1946, nearly five times as much heating and diesel fuels.

Imperial has been a major contributor to this better life, more productive economy. In 1946, Canada produced less than one-tenth of its oil needs. In 1947, Imperial discovered oil at Leduc, in Alberta. Today, Canada's own fields produce nearly 60 percent of our requirements.

Through its nine refineries from coast to coast... and in its research operations, larger than the rest of the Canadian oil industry put together... Imperial has constantly been able to lead in the development of newer and more useful products... to make a fuller life for Canadians.

Since 1941, gasoline-fueled equipment on farms has risen sharply.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

TRADE UNIONISM
The Editor,
The Daily Courier.
Dear Sir:

It would be only contributing to the extreme egotism of the author of the bi-weekly column "Personally Speaking" to make any public comment on the general froth and bubble expressed by the writer.

However, as a member of a reputable craft union for 43 years, I strongly resent his continual attacks upon trade unionism, particularly so, as he apparently knows very little about the matter, and also that his many references to the supposed crimes of organized labor, are never documented, and in many cases incorrect in fact.

The column in your issue of October 7, headed "One Hour's Pay" is a case in point. The sarcastic references to the advertisement published recently in the press by labor organizations in connection with proposed contribution by their members to the community chest, proves that it flits with the opinion of experts of the community chests.

In the excellent article by Peter C. Newman in Maclean's magazine issue of September 27, the pros and cons of the union appeal are set forth very clearly. Mr. Newman writes as follows: "The scale for payroll giving suggested by community chests is fifteen minutes pay weekly for annual incomes below six thousands dollars a year."

This system is rapidly becoming the standard throughout the country and the total amount realized runs into many millions of dollars. Is organized labor, then, failing to do its part? The answer must be "No". I suggest, sir, that the columnist retract this slur on labor whether intentional or unintentional, at the first opportunity, and in future would it not be better to stick to facts, especially considering his status in the community, other than as a secular columnist.

Yours truly,
W. T. GUEST.

MIGHTY CASEY WASN'T OUT

This Casey didn't strike out—this year. Casey Stengel, acid boss of the New York Yankees, this year's "come-back kids" of the World Series, is a real hero along the Great White Way today, after piloting his Yanks to their eighth victory since he took over the managerial reins in 1949. A happy hero, above, he is chaired by some of his happy players.

British Falter At St. Andrews

ST. ANDREWS, Scotland (CP) — The Old Course of St. Andrews was again swept by winds Thursday, keeping scores high during the second day of the world's first amateur golf championship.

Britain's linksman faltered and New Zealand moved into contention as Bob Charles took the individual lead from Scotland's Reid Jack. The New Zealander, with a second straight 74, put his team within one stroke of the front-running British.

At the half-way point, Britain has 461, New Zealand 462 and the United States 465. Canada was seventh with 481. A total 114 players from 29 countries are competing.

Jack Blair of Winnipeg, non-playing captain, looked at his team's scores—only the low three count each day—and predicted they would be lower today.

LOW SCORE DUE

"Somebody's going to come in with a fairly low score," he said. "But I don't know which one."

Doug Bajus of Vancouver shot an 80 to go with his first-round 79, to tie for 18th. Toronto's Eric Hanson put a 79 with his initial 82, while fellow-townsmen Bruce Castator — Canadian amateur champ—added a 79 to an opening 84. Vancouver's Bob Kidd had 83-82-165.

The high-shooting golfers—only 28 managed to break 80 in the trying conditions—found new hope however, as Bobby Jones Jr., British and American open and the crowd sang Will Ye No Come Back Again?

Jones, now an Atlanta, Ga., lawyer, was crying when he accepted. As he hobbled to the electric buggy and rode up the aisle, the crowd sang Will Ye No Come Back Again?

The rights of a bourgeois of St. Andrews sound comical today but their roots go far back to a time when such things were of great importance.

From now on, if he wishes, Jones may "chase rabbits" inside the city limits, hang his washing out to dry on the Old Course and scrape grass from the 18th green.

Jones, now an Atlanta, Ga., lawyer, was crying when he accepted. As he hobbled to the electric buggy and rode up the aisle, the crowd sang Will Ye No Come Back Again?

The rights of a bourgeois of St. Andrews sound comical today but their roots go far back to a time when such things were of great importance.

From now on, if he wishes, Jones may "chase rabbits" inside the city limits, hang his washing out to dry on the Old Course and scrape grass from the 18th green.

Yanks Shaky, But Throned

MILWAUKEE (CP) — The trusty New York Yankees are back on the baseball throne today, still somewhat shaky after their seven-game world series tussle with Milwaukee Braves.

The American League champions clinaxed a desperate uphill battle Thursday with a 6-2 victory to topple the defending Braves and capture their 18th world title in the last 38 years, their eighth in the last 12.

It was a close call for Casey Stengel's crew. Not the best Yankee team to ever enter a series, they had to struggle back from a 3-1 game deficit to take the title.

They needed powerful pitching to offset mediocre hitting and some off-the-cuff help from Milwaukee in the form of poor baserunning, faulty fielding and errant throwing.

CASEY PRAISES

Stengel praised his athletes after their final victory, their third in succession and their fourth in the last five games. It was no time for censure. His boys had accomplished a feat only two other world series clubs achieved.

But it is safe to assume Stengel has not forgotten the promise he made a week ago after the Yankees were beaten 13-5 by the Braves.

"I'm going to make some changes on this club," he said then. "There are several men on this club who don't deserve to be on it. They won't be here next spring."

Even at the height of his exhilaration, in the accomplishment of his seventh series success in nine attempts — the 67-year-old Casey let fly a parting shot.

"Maybe now some of the other clubs in our league will want some of my players again," he said. "If we had to take the title play like we did in the first four games nobody would want our players."

PITCHING WON

Pitching won the pennant for New York. It also won the series. The series team batting was only .211 despite 10 home runs. Only Hank Bauer and Gil McDougald hit better than .300 among the Yankees.

The Yanks managed to comb

the redoubtable Lew Burdette and in the second inning to take a 2-1 lead.

The Braves had two good shots at starter Don Larsen and winner Bob Turley. They muffed both. Even the 46,367 Milwaukee fans sensed they had had it despite a game-tying home run by catcher Del Crandall in the sixth inning. It was the same Crandall who twice came up with the bases full and twice failed to come through.

The Braves left eight runners stranded to increase their total to 37 for the seven games. The Yankees left only 40 on base. Milwaukee hit only three home runs with such sluggers as Matthews, Hank Aaron, Covington and Joe Adcock hitting nothing longer than a double.

Elston Howard's tie-breaking single following Yogi Berra's two-out double and Bill Skowron's three-run homer supplied the clincher. Up to then Burdette, pitching with only two days' rest, had permitted only three hits.

The Yankees had managed to stay even with Milwaukee by grace of a couple of wild throws by first baseman Frank Torre and failure of the Braves to come through in the clutch. They scored two unearned runs against Burdette without the aid of a hit

WHL Teams Facing Off In 288-Game Ice Year

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Six months of professional hockey starts tonight in the nine-team, two-division Western Hockey League, opening its 11th season.

East of the Rockies, all four prairie circuit clubs see action with Winnipeg Warriors at home to Saskatoon Quakers and Calgary Stampedeers playing the Flyers at Edmonton. In the coast division, Vancouver Canucks open at home to Victoria Cougars.

Saturday night, the WHL's newest entry, Spokane Flyers, open their season in their new 5,700-seat arena against Seattle's Totems—last year's Americans under new ownership. New Westminster Royals also open at home to Vancouver. On the Prairies, Edmonton plays at Calgary, Winnipeg at Saskatoon.

STREAMLINED SCHEDULE

These will be the first of 288 games in a streamlined schedule leading to divisional and league championship playoffs in late March and April.

There were 280 games in the 1957-58 schedule, meaning 10 games for each of the eight teams. The nine clubs this year will play 64 games apiece, 32 at home.

The division schedules will continue to interlock. Each coast division team will make three swings through the prairie loop, and vice versa.

Vancouver and Spokane will be playing many of their games Sunday afternoons. Some games at the new Spokane Coliseum also will be on Sundays, but at night.

QUAKERS' HOME

Besides the Spokane entry, only other new look in the WHL is the relocation of Saskatoon Quakers. Last year, owner Jim Piggott split his Regals' games—they became Quakers this year—between Saskatoon and St. Paul, Minn., after drifting between Brandon and Regina in the two previous years.

Now, Piggott has brought the club to his home. He couldn't start there in the 1955-56 season because the Saskatoon WHL franchise then was in other hands.

One goal in the design of this year's schedule is increased attendance. Last year the 280 league and 25 playoff games drew 953,726 fans, up about 52,000 from the year previous but still short of the 1,082,472 in 1955-56.

The league's record attendance is 1,105,840, set in 1952-53, when the league dropped its old Pacific Coast title and began calling itself the Western League.

Bright Leading Pack In WIFU Point Parade

REGINA (CP) — Johnny Bright continues to enjoy a wide lead in the race for individual ground-gaining honors in the Western Interprovincial Football Union. Statistics released today by Bill Hawrylak of Regina, chief WIFU statistician, show the Edmonton Eskimo fullback star with a net gain of 1,165 yards.

Cookie Gilchrist of Saskatchewan Roughriders has taken over second place in the rushing derby with a net gain of 971 yards, surpassing last week's runner-up, halfback Leo Lewis of Winnipeg Blue Bombers. Lewis has dropped to third with 880 yards.

Statistics cover all games to date with Winnipeg having played 12 games, one more than each of the other clubs.

SHEPARD NEXT

Rounding out the top seven ground gainers are Winnipeg's Charlie Shepard who has netted 783 yards, Jim Bakhtiar of Calgary Stampedeers with 717, Edmonton's Normie Kwong with 714, and Saskatchewan's Bobby Marlow with 502.

Lewis has the best average gain at 6.8 yards on 129 carries. Bright is averaging six yards on 194 carries. Gilchrist 5.6 on 172, Bakhtiar 5.5 on 130 and Shepard 5.3 on 147.

Saskatchewan's Frank Tripucka and Calgary's Nobby Wirkowski are running back and neck for passing laurels. Tripucka has completed 54.3 per cent of 188 aerials for 1,596 yards while Wirkowski has completed 53.9 per cent of 176 for 1,497 yards. Both have an average pass of 8.5 yards and Tripucka is tops in touchdown tosses with 14. George Her-ring of British Columbia Lions has had the most intercepted, 20.

TOP RECEIVER

Calgary's Chuck Holloway continues as the top receiver, catching 53 of 69 passes for 887 yards. Saskatchewan's Jack Hill has latched on to 37 of 44 for 629 yards while British Columbia's Paul Cameron and Edmonton's

Joe-Bob Smith have each caught 31 of 36 passes, Cameron's going for 488 yards and Smith's for 457.

Hill is tops in touchdown passes with nine, just two short of the league record set six years ago by Calgary's Paul Salata.

Shepard continues to show the way in the punting department with an average hoist of 44.5 yards on 103 kicks. Herring is averaging 43.3 on 72 punts, Calgary's Ted Duncan 41.7 on 103 and Saskatchewan's Larry Isbell 41.2 on 79.

Saskatchewan's Mike Hagler is out front in punt returns with an average of 12 yards on 47 run-backs. Teammate Harry Lunn is averaging nine yards on 38 returns and Winnipeg's Gordie Rowland 8.7 on 45.

Lewis leads in kickoff returns with an average of 34.4 yards on 13 run-backs. Holloway is averaging 33 yards on eight returns and Gilchrist 29.5 yards on 11.

Packers Were 'Good Guys' Took Rustlers Into Camp

The Rustlers got it in the neck after the Packers got out of the Corral.

Smarting from their defeat at the hands of the Calgary Stampedeers Wednesday night, the Packers roared back last night against the Red Deer Rustlers, the western Canadian intermediate champions, and walloped them 8-4 in the second game of their exhibition swing.

Leading sharpshooters for the "good guys" were Brian "Rocky" Roche and Gerry Goyer, each of whom belted in a ten-gallon hat-trick. Russ Kowalchuk, burly right winger, notched his shooting iron twice.

KING-SIZED CROWD

A crowd of 1,260 crowded into the Red Deer arena to witness the Packers down their home town club, as Bruce McGregor scored twice and singletons were tallied by Bill McCulley and Eugene Kinasevich. McCulley, a former Kelowna player, is a cagy pivot.

Tonight, the Packers play against the Nelson Maple Leafs and tomorrow night they face the Trail Smoke Eaters, leaving right after the game for the trip home. They'll have to bolt their Thanksgiving dinner, since they open the league schedule Monday night in Penicton, and return to Kelowna for a back-to-back match Tuesday night.

The division schedules will continue to interlock. Each coast division team will make three swings through the prairie loop, and vice versa.

Vancouver and Spokane will be playing many of their games Sunday afternoons. Some games at the new Spokane Coliseum also will be on Sundays, but at night.

O'Reilly Seeing Road Without Stars In Eyes

By GEORGE INGLIS
(Courier Sports Editor)

Coach Jack O'Reilly wanted to see his boys on the road—and it looks like he's going to have a chance, with no stars in his eyes.

Last-minute problems of various nature cropped up and left the Irish shorn of many of his top stars for the road trip that will provide a severe test of the recruits' several abilities, now that they are pretty well on their own.

Two-thirds of the high-scoring Young-Durban-Jones line had to stay home, as Moe's wife, Donnie, was hospitalized with double pneumonia and his two daughters are also on the sick list. In Bugs' case, it was the problem of a replacement for his job. A route salesman for a bread company, he just couldn't take off and leave his customers gasping for their staff of life, and a replacement was impossible to come by.

Two-thirds of the No. 1 line of former years, Middleton-Kaiser-Roche, are also out of action for the trip, with Brian "Rocky" Roche carrying the chores while the other two were forced to remain at home, with employment problems.

Bill Swarbrick, the little right winger with the heart that's bigger than his frame, was also forced to stay at home, leaving Jack with the heart cut right out of his offensive staff.

In spite of this severe handicap, the Packers managed to stave off a national catastrophe in Calgary on the first night of their trip, with goalie Dave Gatherum credited with much of the club's holdout power. To this report, in all probability, should be added the fact that the defence staff is a balanced foursome, who will probably turn out a lot of good miles for the Packers, if they continue to come along as they have so far.

Who knows, the shortage may turn out to be a blessing in disguise.

THE TALK ALONG THE COFFEE BEAN ROUTE is that the Packers were ill-advised to take a road trip at this time, when their players were going to have to take a lot of time off just next month. We agree with the slurpers, this once (but we don't plan to make a habit of it).

However, in order to be fair about it, we must agree conditionally. Our basis for disagreement with the trip is with the employment aspect, simply. We felt that the boys have a tough time getting off for both junkets, and it proved that we were correct.

There are two sides to every question, and to look at the view taken by team manager Bob Giordano and coach Jack O'Reilly, we must take a look at what they are up against.

They have the antipathy of the east to contend with, since several clubs down that way wanted to make the trip to Russia, and will not hesitate to shoot barbs at the Packers when they show signs of wavering.

They have the task of forming a club of equal or better calibre to last year's, and doing it with the loss of three key players, and no extra money to work with. Waving in front of them, in every step they make, is a big red flag (the comparison was not intended, but it's good, so we'll leave it). They are a couple of guys with much on their minds.

When they thought of this road trip, they regarded it as an excellent chance to see what their prospective replacements would do, under road conditions similar to those they will face next month. They were fully cognizant that it meant about seven games in eight days, but the overseas jaunt is going to be equally tough.

Very likely, they should have had a chat with some of the employers who might be affected, but they didn't. So they were wrong. But they'll be right as rain if they come up with a winner.

Why not give them a fighting chance, instead of throwing obstacles in their path?

ANOTHER COUNTRY WAS HEARD FROM, in the form of a statement by coach Hal Laycoe, regarding the Packers' chances in Russia. To our knowledge, some Packers fans were irate, but we can do nothing but agree with much of what Laycoe says.

He says the club needs conditioning. That's a mouthful, as far as we are concerned, but we don't think it's going to take until Christmas, as Prince Hal continues. In fact, the majority of the boys will be fit and sassy by a fortnight, if they continue to work hard.

He says the Packers haven't much youth on the club—and we cannot help but agree with him, but we regard this as an asset rather than a liability. Remember the injury-ridden ice-wise Pontifex W's?

He says a good, free-wheeling junior club would get the job done. Well, everyone who knows Hal knows he carries a special brief for youth—in fact, the odd critic has accused him of sending boys to do a man's job. However, he also says the Packers are "long on heart," and "will give it a good try and do an honest job," and these are our sentiments exactly.

Asked whether the club was rough or not, coach Laycoe was forced into a corner, since his Royals had done a number of rather mischievous things to the Packers in their two encounters and not been the subject of too much violence from the larger Packers' ranks (easily ten lb. heavier on the average). However, he copped his bet there, and answered in the negative, but qualified his statement by saying they had some boys who might erupt at any time.

Show me the club who hasn't, and it's probably a girls' grass hockey team.

TO SWERVE FROM THE HOCKEY SCENE, we'd like to doff our bonnets to a band of warriors who bring cheer and interest into thousands of households every day in the year, except Sunday, rain or shine.

We speak of the band of boys and girls of all ages and sizes who take to the streets of Kelowna every afternoon, with their precious cargo—the Daily Courier. We would like to salute them in particular, but wish to doff our bonnets to the little gaffers all over the nation who fill a spot as newspaper carriers for the news-hungry householders of Canada.

This is National Newspaper Week, and the whole industry takes a bow for the valuable service it renders mankind, but the little guys and gals that carry the message to the doors of millions of houses in cities all over the land deserve special tribute.

Because no matter how fine the content of the paper, no matter how carefully it is laid out and printed, the final word on its acceptance rests with these miniature salesmen and ladies. They are the direct link between the industry and the public.

There is a monumental task of salesmanship and diplomacy, as "end-of-the-line" kind of occupation. They are the point of no return. If they fail, all the skill of the writers, editors, composers and printers is but wasted effort. If they succeed, all the follies, eccentricities and failures of their betters is discounted in the fact of a satisfied customer.

They are the diplomats, statesmen, businessmen and politicians of tomorrow. They are tomorrow's citizens, and today's unsung heroes.

Gentlemen and ladies, we salute you, newspaper carriers of Canada.

The Yankees Lived It Up, But The Braves Didn't Die Too Hard

By CHUCK CAPALDO
MILWAUKEE (AP)—The Yankees were expected to live it up after they won the world series. They did.

The Braves were expected to die hard after they lost. They didn't.

These were the expected and unexpected dressing room scenes hard on the heels of New York's remarkable triumph Thursday.

The Yankees, who grabbed the world championship right from under the muted bats of the Braves with a 6-2 victory, ordinarily don't show emotions. But this time they were noisy, almost boisterous.

NOT DOWNHEARTED
The Braves, deprived of baseball's biggest prize after seemingly having an unshakable grip on their second straight championship, were not glum. And, they certainly weren't angry—at themselves.

Only one other team ever lost a seven-game series after taking a 3-games-to-1 lead. That was in 1925 when the Senators blew the championship to the Pirates.

Manager Casey Stengel, who engineered the Yankees' great comeback, couldn't resist a jibe tougher than two or three teams at Milwaukee's Lew Burdette, his one-time tormentor. Burdette beat the Bombers three times last year, but fell before them twice kudos for Bob Turley, who this time while winning only once, pitched 6 2-3 innings of brilliant relief for his second series vic-

POINT PROVED
"Now we look like we could play in the National League," said a grinning Stengel. Prof. Stengel referred to Burdette's crack after winning the second series game. "I'd like to squelch the Braves and Burrow, whose three-run homer came back for good in the same inning. "They're no ALIBIS," Stengel's opposite number, Fred Haney, refused to grasp at proferred alibis. "Instead of moaning, let's talk so why cry about it. I know I did my best."

He did, however, point out the painful fact that his Braves scored 17 runs in the first two series games and only seven in the last five.

Amid the wisecracks, shower room pranks and general levity that marked the Braves' clubhouse, Red Schoendienst said:

"I think I can speak for them. They figure they did their best so why cry about it. I know I did my best."

They figure they did their best so why cry about it. I know I did my best."

WORLD SERIES BRIEFS

By DION HENDERSON
MILWAUKEE (AP)—Today's

finale at County Stadium was the first world series closer since 1954 that saw both teams scoring. In 1955, Johnny Podres of Brooklyn beat the Yanks, 2-0. The next year Johnny Kucks smothered Brooklyn 9-0 for a Yankee triumph and in last year's seventh Lew Burdette pitched a 5-0 decision over the Yanks.

After two-inning throwing errors—which loomed large as the Yankees scored their first two runs before they'd managed a hit off Burdette — first baseman Frank Torre took up foot racing on his next chance. He fielded Berra's grounder deep behind first and beat Yogi in a close race.

Del Crandall knew what he wanted to do, but he took a little too much practice. Up in the first with the bases loaded and two out the Milwaukee catcher struck out. Up in the fourth, in exactly the same situation, Crandall hit a liner deflected by Bob Turley to Gil McDougald, who threw him out, stranding three more. But in the sixth, with no one on, Del parked a Turley pitch in the left field bleachers.

Mothering her husband's ball-players may be all right for Mrs. Fred Haney, but Yankees too? In the sixth, Moose Skowron took after a foul ball, ran into the fence beside the Milwaukee dugout and tumbled over it into Florence Haney's lap.

There may have been inspiration in it, at that. In the eighth, Skowron hit a three-run homer that clinched the Yankee victory.

Except for that first game when the guy climbed up the light pole — and he was from Brooklyn—Milwaukee fans maintained a more or less dignified if not quite sophisticated attitude. Until the eighth inning of the last game, that is. Then a cheerful fellow in a brown suit broke from the stands, scampered into the infield and slid into second base under Gil McDougald's nose. With attendants closing in, he returned to the outfield and was cornered by six of them, aided by two cops, although he spilled one policeman by neat evasive action.

And everybody got there again. For the fourth straight game, attendance was 46,367. Nobody got sick to reduce it one, and there wasn't room to squeeze in an extra.

The seven — game total was 393,889—just a little under the record 394,712 set by the same two clubs in 1957. Net receipts after taxes were $2,397,223.03, compared to the 1957 record of $2,475,978.94.

Take one look inside Admiral TV for '59, and you'll see some of the things that have made these advances possible. There's the 110" picture tube... the shorter tube that has banished the old-style "bustle" in the back that once marred the appearance of your TV. There's the horizontal chassis that reduces operating temperature, lengthens the effective life of components, helps to make possible that slimmer-than-ever cabinet. There's the power transformer that delivers more consistent power, steps-up voltage delivered to the picture tube.

There are so many new Admiral features in the '59 line. But they all add up to viewing that's away ahead of anything you've yet experienced. So if you want to get the most out of viewing, see your Admiral dealer... let him show you just what we mean. Then believe your eyes... if you can... and enter your own new world of TV entertainment with Admiral TV for '59.

FEATHERED FLATTERY

By ALICE ALDEN
Fine feathers make fine hats! This is the year for soft, downy feathers beautifully worked into hats of colorful charm for wear with daytime clothes. Emma designs a soft and lofty turban of patchwork feathers that would make an Ideal escort for a softly detailed tweed suit or wool walking dress. The tall crown and draped band are blended from vivid blue, snowy white and speckled game bird feathers. A jaunty feather wing rises high in front to complete a simple but colorful hat.

Carpeting Creates Atmosphere In Today's Decorating Picture

By ELEANOR ROSS
Despite the emphasis on accent and area rugs, carpeting is surprising when one sees the handsome new and improved patterns which are brought out year after year.

Although they have been out of favor for some time, carved patterns are coming back again, but with a new look that is most attractive. The filigree feeling pervades many such carpets, with enormous medallions, pin wheels, stylized flowers and involved arabesques carved into deep pile with delicate precision.

Carving has been used cleverly to give a new look to the now popular man-made "fur" rug, with geometric patterns neatly cut into their lush piles. Antique Orientals have proved they go well in modern layouts, for their rich colorings offer an easy method of injecting color and pattern into an otherwise simple decor. Copies of treasured Oriental rugs, as well as the patterns, have been marvelously reproduced in the modern, relatively inexpensive versions.

As for unpatterned carpeting, the neutrals are apt to be deeper in tone this year, which is good, for deep shades show less soil and wear and tear.

Beige, the most popular neutral, now comes in shades ranging from deep sand almost to brown. The ever-popular greens are still available, with the addition of some new shades, such as a lovely pale bronze-green and a deep olive, both decorator-type hues.

These strong shades are really neutral and should blend particularly well with the new black-brown finish that appears on the new furniture woods. A comeback is being made by rich burgundy reds, influenced, possibly, by the strong use of these shades in fine Orientals. Light royal blue is doing well, too.

These tones are much better in small doses than in wall-to-wall carpeting for a large room. Carpet mills have introduced many new extras such as moth-proof wool carpeting. It is claimed that the process can withstand some twenty shampoos. At one time moth-proofing lost its efficacy after the first shampooing.

As for pastel nylon carpeting, there is a new finish that renders yardage more oil-resistant and so makes this beautiful, delicately toned carpeting more desirable than ever, even beyond its hard-wearing, enduring qualities.

AYPA To Hold Home Cooking Sale Saturday

The AYPA of St. Michael and All Angels' Anglican Church will hold a bake sale on Saturday, Oct. 11 in the O. L. Jones Furniture store at 11 a.m.

Donations from parishioners would be greatly appreciated. The money raised will be used for the proposed conference to be held in Kelowna next spring.

An analysis of daily newspaper circulation over a three-year period shows it to be constant. All monthly percentages were in the narrow range from 8.2 to 8.4. The absolute constant would be 8.4 per cent a month.

GROUCHO SAYS:

"I Wouldn't Go Back"—Being Tops Now—Who Would?

By HAL McCLURE

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Two middle-aged men watched a young fellow bound into the men's grill at a swank Beverly Hills country club. "Wouldn't you like to be his age and starting all over again?" sighed one.

"I can't think of a more revolting idea," snapped the other. "I wouldn't go through the whole thing again for all the money in the world."

The speaker was Groucho Marx. At 63, he stands at the top of a remarkable career, recognized as one of the great wits. He has a pretty young wife, a nine-room home in Beverly Hills and all the money he'll ever need.

On Sept. 25, he began his 12th season as combination quiz and quiz master on You Bet Your Life (NBC-TV), a job he calls one of the softest snaps in show business.

But it was a long, rough road to the top for Groucho. Small wonder he doesn't want to go back. He once said: "I was kicked into acting by my mother and if I hadn't been, I'd now be on relief. I've always been terrified of dying broke or of being a failure."

Groucho was born Julius Marx in New York. He was the third son of an Alsatian immigrant tailor and the ambitious daughter of a German magician.

Minna Marx—everyone called her Minnie—dedicated her life to pushing her sons into fame in the show business.

She saw to it that Chico (Leonard) took piano lessons. Harpo (Arthur) learned to play the harp himself. The family was poor and only Zeppo (Herbert), the youngest son, reached high school.

In 1910, Minnie organized the Three Nightingales—Groucho, a tenor and a girl. When Harpo joined them, they became the Four Nightingales.

"The Four Vultures would have been more like it," says Groucho. "ACT IS BORN."

After countless whistlopes, tank town theatres and dirty saloon dressing rooms, the four Marx brothers act—Chico, Harpo, Gummo (Milton) and Groucho—was born.

Their musical I'll Say She Is, was a smash hit. Then came The Coconut and Animal Crackers. Their first movie was a film version of The Coconut in 1929. These early pictures—their best—had one thing in common: uninhibited zaniness.

But in the middle 1940s, Groucho's fortunes took a downward turn. His last radio show laid an ostrich-sized egg.

His comeback started on a Bob Hope benefit radio show. During a comedy routine Hope dropped his script. Legend has it that Groucho promptly stepped on it. Marx denies this.

But what followed was one of the funniest ad lib bits in radio history. Producer John Guedel was in the audience and offered Groucho You Bet Your Life. The TV show went on in 1947 and was an instant success.

Joking About Sacred Matters Is Highly Improper Behavior

By GARRY CLEVELAND MYERS, Ph.D.

We parents can't afford to joke about sacred things. If we do, our children will also.

To most of us, sacred things usually mean things related to religion. Any person has the right not to consider certain religious symbols and practices sacred himself, but he's almost sure to mingle with others who do. When he jokes about any of these matters in the presence of those who consider them sacred, he infringes on their rights and feelings.

HARMS THE CHILD If a child hears us joke about something that is sacred to someone he respects and admires, see the harm we can do. Some years ago, I used to hear a long-time friend of mine make a joke of Bible quotations in an effort to be funny. This must have seemed sacrilegious to his children as well as to many adults.

You, yourself, have often heard a person who attended a church or synagogue make remarks about some religious practice of another faith in a poor attempt at humor.

JOKES ABOUT FASTS How often have you heard, for example, a person of one faith make fun of the way certain religious groups fast on certain days or observe certain dietary laws?

There are many other matters which are sacred to the persons concerned. When we make remarks under the guise of humor about such matters, see the harm we do other persons, ourselves and our children.

As a rule, jokes of this nature suggest we feel superior to those we joke about. What moral right have any of us to belittle other persons and what is precious to them?

A rule our children should learn from us is this: Never joke about or speak lightly of anything which is really precious or sacred to anybody else.

ANSWERING PARENTS' QUESTIONS Q. Our teen-age daughter is very tall and is sensitive about it.

A. Never refer to her height. When others do in her presence, quietly divert their attention to other matters.

OKANAGAN CENTRE

OKANAGAN CENTRE—Tuesday evening the Centre circle of St. Margaret's Guild was convoked at the home of Mr. and Mrs. G. E. Parker with nine members present.

Minutes of the last meeting were read and discussed and tentative plans were made for the annual pre-Christmas sale which will be held late in November.

Refreshments were served during the social hour by the hostess.

Mr. and Mrs. George Tyrrell (nee Marian Fochler) are receiving congratulations on the birth of a son.

Mrs. H. Bond returned home at the weekend from a visit at the home of her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. John Shearer in Penticton.

A good attendance greeted the teachers, Mrs. H. Macfarlane and Mrs. Venables on Sunday morning when St. Margaret's church school resumed sessions after the summer holiday.

Parents are urged to see that their children over four years of age are enrolled and attend each Sunday at 10 a.m.

Borge Victorious In Life-Long Happiness Search

By WILLIAM GLOVER

NEW YORK (AP)—The strangely frantic world of Victor Borge keeps spinning faster and faster.

But the man himself is content—at last.

"Until not too long ago I didn't think I could be happy," says the funnyman. "Then I suddenly found I could."

Borge makes the comment as he analyzes some causes and effects of one of the show world's most remarkable careers.

The unmelancholy Dane is a combination king of comics and man of commerce.

"I am the only performer in the world today who all by himself can make what he wants. A million a year: Fifty thousands a week? You name it."

He talks in the flat, impersonal manner of an auditor at a lecture as he dissects the drives and feelings that keep him moving with the dexterous alacrity of a man on a tightrope with a tiger by the tail.

SET RECORD Since setting Broadway's all-time record for a one-man show with his Comedy in Music a couple of seasons back, Borge has been smashing records from Las Vegas to London.

His 1958 travels total 500,000 miles; one "intimate" concert drew 92,000; and in England the BBC let him utterly disrupt programming by running overtime 19 minutes.

Such activities, however, are only half the Borge story.

From a tiny start a few years back, his fancy poultry business has rocketed so that 25,000 birds can now be packed daily. He recently took over a huge farm in Denmark and he intends to put it promptly on a paying basis.

As a new phase of his multiple interests, he is becoming an importer of fancy foods and household furniture.

AVOIDS TV Although at times Borge seems eager to attempt more and more within each 24 hours, he carefully avoids too many visits to television. He holds one of TV's richest contracts with an automobile maker (Pontiac)—but like everything else in Borge's one-man professional life, it is designed to his specifications.

"I don't want to do TV for income, but simply to establish myself with the largest possible audience at one time—and hope that they remember me," he says.

Victor is committed to one show a season, but may do more if he wants to; and what the sponsor gets on that show—Borge alone or Borge with symphony orchestra and supporting cast—rests with him. His network appearance this year is set for Nov. 29.

As usual, he is working out the details for that show while at the same time making personal appearances, devising new material he thinks up in his own humor, does his own musical arrangements among other items and supervising his various business undertakings.

Yellowhead Pass Project Rejected

MONTREAL (CP)—A highway to the Pacific via the Yellowhead Pass—a project dear to the hearts of Edmontonians—failed to get the support of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce.

Edmonton delegates were successful in getting a two-thirds vote to allow them to bring their proposal before the chamber's annual meeting, but the proposal was defeated.

It had originally been thrown out by the chamber's preparatory committee on the ground that it involved a matter essentially regional instead of national—and chamber rules are that it will take stands on matter only of national interest.

The two day meeting was held at St. Paul's United Church, Mission Road on October 7 and 8.

The new construction includes a new hall at Cawston, a church at Golden, and an expansion program at Naramata.

The ladies of St. Paul's served luncheon and a dinner for the delegates. Mrs. J. G. Mervyn convened the three circles of the church to offer this hospitality.

"Thanksgiving" is the title of the lesson-sermon for the Kelowna Christian Science Society to be read on Thanksgiving day.

The message to be read in all Christian Science churches in B.C., will consist of selections from the King James version of the Bible, and from the Christian Science textbook "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy.

The lesson-sermon has been designed to emphasize the living of one's gratitude to God.

Testimonies from the floor will also be featured.

PENTICTON (CP)—A Canadian holiday ended in tragedy for an American couple Wednesday when the car in which they were travelling collided with a truck at nearby Skaha Lake.

One person, a woman passenger in the car, was killed and the driver seriously injured.

The truck driver escaped injury. The collision took place 150 yards south of the traffic safety sign announcing 189 fatality free days.

Imitation Guns Are Confiscated

VANCOUVER (CP)—RCMP have taken in 15 imitation guns in the University Hill district here after a plea to high school students in the area.

RCMP warned about 100 pupils attending a high school assembly that boys found with the weapons after 5 p.m. Tuesday would be prosecuted. A police spokesman said the response was poor since RCMP believe as many as 200 of the guns are in the area.

None of the man and woman are being withheld pending notification of next-of-kin.

The Saviour Is Born In The City Of David

CHRIST IS BORN IN BETHLEHEM
Scripture — Luke 2:1-40
By NEWMAN CABBELL

St. Luke tells in the scripture assigned to our lesson today, Luke 2:1-40, of the journey that Joseph and Mary made from their home in Nazareth to Bethlehem because of a Roman tax levied on the Jews. The lovely story of Christ's birth will be told again at Christmas time, as has been done for 15 centuries; now we will study the text of the chapter.

The word Bethlehem means "house of God", and it was five miles south of Jerusalem. Nazareth, the home of Joseph and Mary, was 90 miles north of Jerusalem. It was a fitting place for Christ to be born, for it was the birthplace of King David, and is often called the City of David.

What a vivid picture we have in our minds of the shepherds tending their flocks in the fields and hearing from an angel of God that the long-looking-for Messiah was born! These poor men did not ignore the tidings, but hurried to Bethlehem to see this wonderful Child and to worship Him.

A certain number of days had to elapse after the birth, according to Jewish law, before Mary could enter the temple. When the time was up, she and Joseph took the Blessed Child there to be presented to the Lord, and to offer a sacrifice of two young pigeons, as they were too poor for a more expensive offering.

Now there was in Jerusalem a just and devout man named Simeon, who waited for the "consolation of Israel." The Holy Ghost had revealed that he "should not see death, before he had seen the Lord's Christ."—Luke 2:25, 26.

The Spirit took him into the temple just as Mary and Joseph brought the Infant Jesus in, and Simeon at once recognized that here was the promised Messiah, and he took the Babe into his arms and blessed God, saying, "Lord, now lettest Thou Thy servant depart in peace, according to Thy word; for mine eyes have seen Thy salvation, which Thou hast prepared before the face of all people; a light to lighten the Gentiles, and the glory of Thy people Israel."—Luke 2:29-32.

This song of Simeon's "has been recognized and for ages it has entered into the evening services of the Church, both the Roman Catholic and the Anglican churches." Dr. Wilbur M. Smith says in his Peloubet's Select Notes.

Simeon blessed Mary and Joseph, who were marveling at these things. He said to Mary, "Behold this Child is set for the fall and rising again of many in Israel; and for a sign which shall be spoken against; (Yea, a sword shall pierce through thy own soul also) that the thoughts of many hearts may be revealed."—Luke 2:34-35.

Simeon was proved a true prophet as the sword did indeed pierce the gentle Mary's heart as she witnessed the persecutions and final cruel death of her beloved Son.

There was also in the temple that day in Jerusalem a widow of many years who never departed from the temple, "but served God with fastings and prayers night and day." She "gave thanks likewise unto the Lord, and spake of Him to all them that looked for redemption in Jerusalem."—Luke 2:36-38.

When Joseph and Mary had "performed all things according to the law of the Lord, they returned into Galilee, to their own city Nazareth. And the Child grew, and waxed strong in spirit, filled with wisdom; and the grace of God was upon Him."—Luke 2:39-40.

Today, while we rejoice in the thousands of scientific discoveries that help make the world a better and easier place in which to live, the sword is still piercing many mothers' and fathers' hearts all over the world as they fear their sons' lives sacrificed on battlefields. Let us pray and strive diligently to bring up our sons so that they, too, may be filled with wisdom, strong in spirit, with the "grace of God upon them," as was our Lord Jesus. Then they may bless the world and peace may finally become a reality on the earth.

MEMORY VERSE
"The Child grew, and waxed strong in spirit, filled with wisdom; and the grace of God was upon Him."—Luke 2:40.

Imitation Guns Are Confiscated

VANCOUVER (CP)—RCMP have taken in 15 imitation guns in the University Hill district here after a plea to high school students in the area.

RCMP warned about 100 pupils attending a high school assembly that boys found with the weapons after 5 p.m. Tuesday would be prosecuted. A police spokesman said the response was poor since RCMP believe as many as 200 of the guns are in the area.

Japanese Officials Study Plan For Alaskan Coal Trading

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (Reuters) — Far East markets may use Alaskan coal if plans materialize for developing some of the large coal reserves here. A group of Japanese officials representing important steel and mining companies of Japan have been completing studies this fall in the Bering River coal fields with the possibility of mining coking coal in mind. The party visited Cordova, the Prince William Sound port closest to the untapped coal fields and which once was a gateway for an important copper mining industry. It is reported that various phases of a possible large mining and shipping operation in the Cordova area are being investigated. The product would be shipped to Japan, which has increasing need of coal for its steel mills. If tests of the coal deposits prove favorable, the mining work could be under way by 1960. Large deposits of coal in Alaska have awaited markets and miners, but with abundant reserves in the United States there has been no hurry in developing the Alaska fields. Japan at present imports considerable quantities of coal from the United States and it is believed that the shorter shipping distance between Alaska and the Far East could outweigh the disadvantage of getting a new Alaskan field into production.

Canadian Scientists Come Up With Safer Flying Gadget

TORONTO (CP) — Two National Research Council scientists have come up with a gadget whose powerful radio promises to save lives and money by guiding rescuers to aircraft crashes. The device is called the "Crash Position Indicator," developed by D. M. Makow and T. H. Stevinson, who described its function today to the annual Institute of Radio Engineers convention. CPI's transmitter and other operating parts are embedded in plastic foam, inside what was described as "a tumbling air-foil." The gadget is attached to the tail of a plane, or any outside area. If the plane should crash, CPI springs loose and floats clear of the wreckage. Meanwhile, it has begun sending out radio signals to give the position to search planes. All this is automatic.

RIGID TESTS
The inventors said CPI has come through rigid tests in wooded country, ravines and in deep snow. The built-in power supply is good for several days of continuous operation and the signal can be heard 30 miles away. The device was said to be practically indestructible. During tests, one was hurled at the face of a cliff by a high-speed rocket sledge and was not damaged.

The two men said the Ultra Electric Company of Britain has obtained a manufacturing licence and several firms in Canada and the U.S. appear to be interested. The radio engineers also displayed a new radar-television device, which the manufacturers, Raytheon Canada Limited, said would help avoid jet-age collisions in the air. The machine combines advanced radar techniques with a 21-inch TV monitor screen.

The company said airports at Winnipeg, Regina, Saskatoon, Edmonton, Calgary and Vancouver and other centres are to be equipped with the device. Two Canadian Westinghouse Company experts, P. L. Hazen and D. G. W. Mace of Hamilton, described a reliable communications system for use between mine shaft cages and the operator on the surface. The hoist alarm unit, the two men reported, provides a signal that can be used either to effect a sudden stop or to communicate with the operator in an emergency. The federal government was warned Wednesday that Canada will be stripped of her top electronics and missile specialists unless the Avro Arrow jet program is replaced by something else.

Proper Use Of Land Stand By Chamber Gets Criticism

MONTREAL (CP) — A section on proper use of land in a Canadian Chamber of Commerce policy statement ran a gamut of criticism from western delegates at the chamber's annual meeting. The delegates objected to a section that said: "Just as town planning is a definite need in municipalities and restrictions are placed on use of land and the type of building that may be erected, so, in a broader sense, province-wide and local planning is necessary if we are to make proper use of our land and preserve certain areas for the uses to which they are best suited." H. Gordon Love of Calgary said the section was not consistent with free enterprise. J. S. Woodward of Saskatoon said the proposal apparently was a particular concern of Ontario's Niagara Peninsula, and did not qualify as a national matter. L. L. Ball of Yorkton, Sask., declared: "Those who support the statement should take a trip to Saskatchewan and see what long-term planning means." Another delegate commented that the statement "invited someone to come and tell the farmer what to plant." N. E. Huston of Regina supported the statement as it stood. The attempt to get it removed failed on a vote. In a study conducted by Northwestern University, 92 per cent of housewives interviewed said that if they had a choice of newspapers with or without advertising, they would prefer newspapers with advertising. A Canadian fire scientist laconically lists his four principal causes of fire: 1. Men; 2. Women; 3. Children; 4. Lightning.

Federal Byelections Uphold Government

OTTAWA (CP) — On the record, the two federal byelections last week show that the progressive Conservatives so far have apparently lost none of the momentum that produced their resounding general election victory last March 31. The two votes, in Ontario and Quebec constituencies, also indicated that the Liberal opposition is not yet ready to wage an all-out electoral fight against the government. Liberal Leader Pearson now is in the midst of the first major organizing tour he has had time to make since becoming leader last January. His long-range goal: the next general election some four years from now. At any rate, Conservatives had a comparatively easy time of it last Monday in retaining Grenville-Dundas in eastern Ontario and capturing Quebec's Montmagny-L'Islet from the Liberals. In Grenville-Dundas, a Conservative stronghold for some 80 years, Mr. Pearson entered the campaign only once at the outset, and no other former Liberal cabinet ministers went to help party candidate Mark P. Salmon who himself waged a vigorous fight. On the other side, four Conservative ministers lent a hand to Mrs. Jean Casselman, 38-year-old widow of Clair Casselman who had held the riding since 1924. She came in 5,121 votes ahead, compared with the 6,433-vote majority of her husband last March 31, and polled only 55 votes fewer than he did. LIBERAL STRONGHOLD Liberals in Montmagny-L'Islet on March 31 survived the landslide that swept Conservatives to victory in two-thirds of Quebec's 75 ridings. But in the by-election that riding switched to the government, too, voting Conservative for the first time since it was established in 1933. The byelections were the first tests at the polls since the last general elections. THE DAILY COURIER FRIDAY, OCT. 10, 1958

Natural Gas Has Kept Canada's Living Standard At High Level

Countless wonders of gas help keep Canada's standard of living at its highest level in history. The magic blue flame is used to make virtually everything, from soup to nuts and even the kitchen sink.

Gas has 26,000 adaptations of more than 2,500 individual uses in the fabrication and production of almost every item required in the daily life of the nation.

In addition to its dual role as a raw material and a vital precision tool for such industries as food processing, metal working, finishing and petrochemical production, gas is also a major fuel in the generation of electrical power.

The versatility of gas provides millions with the best in food, clothing and shelter. Further, it contributes to their health and happiness at work and at play. And, in war or peace, gas keeps the country strong with arms, ammunition and everything from jeeps to jets.

Food, of course, is the nation's No. 1 concern. While Canadians spend millions of dollars a year for food, gas helps to produce, process and preserve it.

FARM USES

Starting at the farm, fertilizers made from gas derivatives help the crops grow. Gas heat protects orchards from killing frosts and, in arid districts, gas-fired engines pump life-giving water into irrigation ditches. It can also keep billions of bushels of rice, wheat and corn and tons upon tons of hay and alfalfa safe from damaging moisture.

At poultry farms and hatcheries, gas gives both life and protection to little chicks. The chicks are hatched by the controlled temperatures of gas and are safeguarded by gas-fired brooder heaters afterward.

Industries which process and preserve foods also are important gas users because they need the economical and efficient heat to pre-cook millions of cans and bottles of food as well as frozen foods and dry cereals.

Gas, a fast and flexible heat source, has the capacity to do just about everything. It produces oodles of dried fruit and soup as well as tons of roasted peanuts. In other applications, gas literally "pops" the peeling from pimientos and it pops mountains of popcorn.

The miracle flame roasts carloads of coffee beans and serves the appetites of millions with tasty smoked and cured meats. It also protects their health with oceans of pasteurized milk. At the same time, thousands of bakeries use gas to produce the "staff of life" every kind of bread and pastry.

But, before food goes to market, it must be packaged. Gas helps to produce the paper, the glass and the tin containers. On top of that, gas helps to make the corks and bottle caps. It also dries the ink on the labels.

The tin can industry, which produces more than 40 billion containers a year, is but one of the big metal working gas customers. Gas is used to produce almost every type of metal—aluminum, iron, copper, lead and many others. It not only produces the metal but also provides the heat for the manufacture of all types of metal products used in the home, office, stores, factories, farms and countless other places.

GAS APPLIANCES

Millions of today's modern homes are actually houses that gas built—and that gas furnished, too. In fact, gas is the fuel that was used to make a great many of the millions of gas appliances in use today—the water heaters, furnaces, air-conditioners, ranges, refrigerators, clothes dryers and incinerators. It is also the fuel used to make the kitchen sink, bathroom fixtures, electrical fixtures (including TVs, radios, clocks, kitchen appliances, telephones, etc.) silverware and china.

Many of the basic building materials which go into a house were made or processed with gas, too—lumber, roofing paper, shingles, asbestos, insulation materials, bricks, tiles, cement blocks and floors and, even the paint and varnish for exteriors, interiors and furnishings.

Much of the window glass which brings the outside in and, vice versa, is also a product of gas heat. For that matter, millions of square feet of glass that plays such an important role in today's manufacturing and building comes from vats of molten liquid heated by gas to a white hot temperature.

Wherever heat is needed for manufacturing, gas is the reliable fuel. That goes for the simplest paper clips to the biggest machinery in factories.

And, wherever we moderns go, the mode of conveyance is a product of gas. Autos, trains, planes, ships and the youngsters' tiny tricycles are made faster and better today by the miracle of "stored sunshine". Even the ends of railroad tracks are hardened by gas flames.

NEW FABRICS

Comfort and convenience in nation.

Travel is a specialty of gas. It helps to produce the shock absorbers in a car as well as the rubber tires, fabrics, plastics, and also takes the enamel on the outside as well as the inside.

And, travel togs, as well as luggage are made by gas. The textile industry uses gas to make hot water for steam and, for the finished product, it is used for bleaching, dyeing and printing. Also, the blue flame sears off the "fuzz" that is left on many fabrics after their manufacture.

Modern clothing also comes out of test tubes as well as from the traditional sources of wool, cotton and silk. New man-made fibers such as acrilan, nylon, dacon and orlon are made from gas derivatives. This is only a part of the growing field of petrochemistry where gas is used as both a raw material and a fuel. Gas produces a major share of the nation's chemicals, including ammonia, alcohol, plastics and fibers and synthetic rubber and soaps and other detergents.

Natural gas has had and will continue to have a tremendous impact on modern industrialization of Canada as well as a huge influence on the progress of the nation.

"New Look" Gas Appliances Latest For Modern Living

Gas has really got it this year. The "new look" is everywhere. Top of the burner controls, wider ovens, recessed griddles, meat thermometers, built-in and recessed ranges, refrigerators, dryers and water heaters are show-stoppers!

Modern, handsomely-styled kitchen settings use gas appliances in every conceivable way, proving once again the versatility and adaptability of gas equipment.

Taking their lead from the automobile manufacturers, the "new look" kitchens are equipped with two and three-toned colored enamel and metallic-finished gas appliances in combination with color-coordinated cabinets. Pink, yellow, blue, green, copper-tone, stainless steel and satin chrome, used in a variety of combinations, put kitchens on the "best-dressed" list.

Surface units, in a variety of arrangements, are used to advantage. These attract a great deal of attention because of the new thermostatic controls which are revolutionizing top of the burner cooking, where 80 per cent of all cooking is done.

Hailed as one of the most exciting new range features ever developed (one manufacturer calls it the greatest development in cooking over the last 43 years) these marvelous thermostatic controls make any utensil an automatic appliance. Automatically maintaining temperatures ranging from a low, low 150 degrees up to 450 degrees, they completely eliminate scorching, burning and boilovers.

Another scene-stealer is the gas duomatic washer-dryer combination. These are becoming just as versatile and popular as built-in gas ranges. Recessed into walls, built into unusual counter arrangements, and left free-standing, they illustrate the widest choice of arrangements possible. They can be used in the kitchen, laundry room or basement laundry-playroom area.

Gas water heaters are tied-in with laundry equipment to emphasize the importance of hot water in home laundering. They, too, have the much-wanted "new look". A pink and white square shaped gas water heater, specially designed to fit in well with washers and dryers in modern laundry rooms, makes a big hit with housewives.

Gas heaters are equally at home in the kitchen, concealed in closets, or shown counter-top height alongside other modern home appliances.

Also new is a gas-powered griddle in combination with recessed top of the burner units are much in evidence. Surface units finished in copper and stainless steel, feature a variety of arrangements, staggered all-in-a-row and divided, depending upon the designer's choice.

One set of hinged surface units fold into a back panel when not in use, permitting the counter top to be used as a work surface when needed. Controls are installed either on the counter surface or just below, for all of the various units offered.

Built-in ranges, of course, are in abundance. One built-in oven now comes 24 inches wide to make it the largest built-in gas oven on the market. Others have a built-in thermometer which reads the doneness of roasts from inside the meat and registers the reading on a visible range-top dial.

Still another model has a meat thermometer with a metal-covered cord attached, which is plugged into a connection, recessed in the oven wall, which works like a telephone jack. The sharp point of the thermometer is plunged into the roast, the dial set and the cord hooked up. The "oven sentinel" then takes over and when the meat is cooked precisely to the degree desired, it turns the oven off.

It can also be hooked up to oven clocks so that the entire cooking operation takes place while the housewife is out of the house.

Truly automatic 1958 gas appliances are most completely modern appliances on the market. They incorporate every possible feature, in every possible choice of colors and finishes. Whether built-in or free standing they add a note of beauty to any kitchen setting.

Gas has got it, and you can be sure that the housewife wants it.

Facts On Gas Appliances

1. The ash residue from your gas incinerator can be used to fertilize gardens, flowers and shrubs, thus eliminating the expense of commercial fertilizer.
2. Natural Gas for heating your home contributes to the good health of all the family. It affords the user a clean place to live and provides relief from the jangled nerves and wear-and-tear attached to the use of other fuels.
3. With an automatic natural gas range any size utensil can be used over any gas burner, since the flame automatically adjusts its spread, thus the expense of specially designed pots, pans and kettles is eliminated.
4. The modern automatic gas water heater provides "finger-tip" hot water control from a pint to many gallons, 24 hours of the day and night, at any desired temperature.
5. Your automatic gas dryer can be used for airing your woolen blankets between washings and also for drying the children's snow suits.
6. The natural gas refrigerator is different from all others because it alone has no motor to make a noise, no machinery to wear out.
7. Strong soap, soda, and alkali should not be used on aluminum burners, as they may corrode and roughen the smooth metal surface.

HOW TO IMPROVE YOUR SINGING VOICE

Singing, say Donald Gramm and Didi Van Eyck, is a matter of muscle control, so a singer should be muscle conscious. Donald is a bass-baritone and Didi is a soprano on Broadway and several times a week they show up at a gymnasium and work out like a couple of weight-lifters. By now, Didi's abdominal muscles are so strong that, though she only weighs 105, she can support his 200 pounds with little effort.

Occupational Hazards Revealed By Statistics

By Herman N. Bundesen, M.D. Is your job dangerous? What are the chances of your being injured while at work?

Even though coal mining injuries have been reduced 64 per cent in the past eight years, this is still the most dangerous occupation, according to the statistics published recently in "Patterns of Disease." The percentage of mining injuries which result in death remains higher than for any other industry.

TEMPORARY DISABILITY

Fortunately, most industrial accidents involve only temporary disability. There were 48,24 injuries per 1,000 man hours worked in coal mining operations in 1956.

Lumber and wood products work (excluding furniture making) was the next most dangerous occupation with 38.9 injuries per 1,000 man hours.

OTHER HAZARDOUS FIELDS

Next comes construction, 31.2; trucking and warehousing, 30.2; mining and quarrying other than coal, 27.9; ship and boat building, 19.3.

Food processing is close behind, 19.0; then furniture and fixtures, 17.7; the wholesale and retail trade, 12.5; hotels, 11.9.

Private transit ranks next, 11.7, and railroad equipment follows, 10.0. The injuries incurred in the manufacture of railroad equipment carry the greatest danger of permanent disability.

Next in order are printing and publishing, 9.2; chemicals and allied products, 8.1; private hospitals, 7.5; public utilities (non-government), 7.2; apparel and other finished textile products, 6.4; ordinance and accessories, 5.1.

AUTO HAZARDS

The manufacturing of autos is the next most dangerous occupation, 5.1. This follows the railroad equipment industry in likelihood of injuries causing permanent disability.

Finally, come aircraft manufacture, 3.4, and telephone manufacture, 0.8.

I haven't listed agriculture because it isn't an industrial occupation. However, it is a dangerous one. In fact, one of our most hazardous ones. Most farm accidents (44 per cent)

Actress Refuses To Disrobe - So She Gets Fired

NEW YORK (AP) — The play script calls for a shapely young actress, portraying a slave girl in ancient Rome, to disrobe to the waist on the emperor's command.

Lelia Barry said she would not—and is no longer in, the cast.

The incident came out today in connection with rehearsals of the new Maxwell Anderson drama, The Goden Six, which opens soon at an off-Broadway theatre.

Max Barry said she was dismissed following unsuccessful persuasive efforts by Anderson, who kept telling her "it was art and I would be a pioneer."

It is not yet definite whether the half-strip will actually take place on the stage—the New York licence commissioner has strict notions about such matters.

Canada Pear Output High

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada produced more pears and peaches but less apples this year, the bureau of statistics estimated today.

The pear crop increased to 1,435,800 bushels from 1,094,000 and the peach crop to 3,078,000 from 2,801,000. The apple harvest, however, declined to 15,370,000 bushels from 15,906,000.

British Columbia's apple crop was set at 6,583,000 bushels, compared with 6,981,000 last year.

IWA Expected To Turn Down Board Report

VICTORIA (CP) — A conciliation board majority report has recommended against a wage increase for northern interior lumber workers.

The recommendation was expected to be turned down by the International Woodworkers of America, since leaders of southern interior woodworkers have recommended against acceptance of a conciliation report that proposed two three-per-cent pay boosts over a two-year period.

Stratosphere Balloon Falls Short Of Goal

ALAMOGORDO, N.M. (AP) — The U.S. Air Force's third "Man-High" balloon flight to the stratosphere has ended short of its appointed but none the worse for goal.

The balloon was returned to earth, an air force announcement said, because "capsule heat and humidity rose to an extreme degree and could not be lessened," and to prevent the pilot from developing heat prostration.

Lieut. Clifton McClure, 25-year-old of 99,600 feet.

It was a perfect launching in the calm dawn Wednesday, in said, because "capsule heat and humidity rose to an extreme degree and could not be lessened," and to prevent the pilot from developing heat prostration.

McClure reached a peak altitude of 99,600 feet.

YOUR HOROSCOPE

By ESTRELLITA

FOR TOMORROW

Another good day! Promote all interests with the proverbial vim and vigor and, in leisure time, share your pleasures with others. Most persons will be in highly congenial mood, and you should find group activities most enjoyable.

FOR THE BIRTHDAY

If tomorrow is your birthday, your horoscope for the year ahead indicates truly excellent prospects. In fact, Libras are especially favored, planetarily.

This year so, if you make the most of opportunities and work constructively, you should have fine results. The next six weeks and the mid-1959 period will be excellent for money matters, so plan now on building for future security, and do exploit every possible chance for gain.

As with many other Zodiacal natives, you will have to watch your emotions during November and February since temper flares and ups during these months could upset personal relationships.

Otherwise, there's promise of happy domestic, social and sentimental situations in your life for many months to come. Excellent news late in December will show you how to continue 1958's progress during the new year.

A child born on this day will be endowed with a great sense of justice, but may be inclined to express his opinions too forcefully at times.

ROOSTER IS TRAVELLING COMPANION

Mary had a little lamb but Rosemary has a rooster that rides with her to school. Rosemary Mackenzie, 13, Toronto, has taught the rooster, named Sunshine, Jr., to perch on his shoulder and to ride the handlebars of her bicycle when she goes cycling.

The rooster's father, Sunshine, Sr., was also Rosemary's pet but she had to say good-bye to him when his crowing—he was a blue ribbon champ—disturbed the neighbors.
